

Yes, there is too much violence on television programming. It is offensive to adults and a bad example for children.